E. WOLF, WAR VET, IS BELIEVED SUICIDE

Search has been instituted for E. Wolf, 33, veteran of the world war, and brother of Mrs. George D. Squires of Woodside, who disappeared from the home of his sister, with up to a late afternoon, and had not been heard from. He suffered severely from a heart attack during the war, and it is believed that his injuries may have induced a mental complaint, and that he may have committed suicide.

A short time prior to his disappearance, Wolf tried to borrow money from a nephew in Menlo Park, but was refused. He at that time, is said to have acted in a manner that led to the conclusion that he was not mentally balanced.

COLLISION WITH CABLE ENDS IN BOYS DEATH

His neck broken by the sudden jolt caused by driving into a cable across Perry street in this city, George Cain, 20, of San Francisco, passed away at St. Mary's hospital in that city Tuesday night. Cain was removed to the San Francisco hospital after emergency treatment here was rendered by Dr. H. L. Clattenburg. Martin Mason of San Mateo, a passenger with Cain in the delivery car which he was driving, suffered a badly fractured jaw and the loss of several teeth.

NOTED PSYCHOLOGIST WILL LECTURE HERE

Series of Free Lectures by Woman
Speaker Gives Secret of Being
Happy and Successful

Viola Sweet, psychologist of Denver, Colorado, began a series of free lectures last night at Odd Fellows Hall, 241 Main street. The general theme is "The Game of Life and How to Play It."

Mrs. Sweet, whose life is a demonstration of her theories, insists that life is not a battle, as so many believe, but instead a game, which by mastering the rules, one can play happily and successfully. It is the everyday problems of life and how to solve them that Mrs. Sweet discusses.

have even a headache or a cold. That illness is only the result of wrong methods of living and thinking.

SEEKS FAIR EXHIBIT FROM THIS COUNTY

County Horticultural Commissioner A. W. Tate is busy preparing a suitable exhibit for this county at the State Fair to be held at Sacramento beginning September 3. In the past, Tate says, he has been handicapped by a lack of co-operation on the part of those who have products suitable for exhibiting at the fair. The chief display last year was cut flowers, and while cut flowers and potted plants form a big item in the list of county products, they are not by any means the only products that could be exhibited to advantage.

It is hoped by Tate that a more diversified exhibit can be secured this year, including fruit, manufactured products and other products of the county. A large map of the county will be used showing the location of various industries. This map will be surrounded by large photographs of scenes from the county, each scene opposite the place on the map where it may be found.

Any person having products which would show up well in an exhibit of this sort should get in touch with the horticultural commissioner as soon as possible.

ONLY RAGS CAUSE OF FIRE YESTERDAY P.M.

City Engineer Favors Arterial Stop Signs

A proposition of erecting arterial stop signs along Phelps street, Main street and Broadway was made before Monday's meeting of the board of trustees by City Engineer C. L. Dimmitt. The need of the signs has been created, Dimmitt stated, by the improvement of Phelps street and a greatly increased amount of traffic along this street and other streets of the main section of town.

Dimmitt stated that the signs would cost $4.00 each, and the Automobile Association would assume the maintenance of them for one year. A total of 55 signs would be required, he said, if all three streets were furnished with the signs. It only Phelps street is signed 24 signs would be enough.

A fire which would in all probability have reached disastrous proportions but for the prompt action of the fire department was extinguished yesterday afternoon in the machine shop of the Sequoia Union high school. The fire is said to have originated by spontaneous combustion in some oil rags used by the students in the machine shop.

Smoke was noticed issuing from the building and an alarm was turned in from one of the auxiliary boxes at the high school. The department responded promptly and extinguished the blazing rags with chemicals.

The machine shop is located in a wooden structure, formerly the racing stable of William Dingee. The building is used for machine shop and wood working classes and contains several thousand dollars worth of machinery and tools. An examination of the damage showed a portion of the tongue and groove finish of the building to have been burned, otherwise there was no damage.

The matter was given only a short discussion by the board as only three members were present. Further discussion was held over to the next meeting when more of the board will be present and a fuller discussion will be possible.

Deputy Sheriffs Are Appointed

Sheriff James J. McGrath has appointed the four new deputies allowed him under the county government bill adopted by the last Legislature. They are J. Jara, formerly jailer, Leland Quinlan of Halfmoon Bay, J. Fickelstein, Burlingame, James Hanlon, Redwood City, and Elgin Kreiss, Redwood City. Jara, who was jailer, was promoted to a deputyship and his place as jailer was given to Hanlon, formerly a U. S. deputy marshal. Kreiss resigns his position as a state traffic officer. Protest Filed Against Paving

Following the opening of bids for the paving of the Schwiner addition in Visitation valley by the board of supervisors, and just as the board was about to award the contract to the lowest bidder, a protest was received which delayed the awarding of the contract. The protest was made by a representative of the Ratteree Brothers, owners of about forty per cent of the property affected.

The attorney for the protesters stated that while they favored the improvements they considered the present plan too extensive for the present property values to warrant. It was requested that the matter be laid over for two weeks in order that further time might be given to the people of the district to consider the matter.

Two bids were received for the work, one from Hanrahan & Co. for $137,137, and the other from A. G. Raish for $152,918.

A representative of the lower bidder was present and asked that the bid be accepted at that time as one week would make a difference in the weather and the cost of the work. The matter was finally laid over for one week on a motion of Supervisor Hickey.

Those in the party were Sheriff Jas. J. McGrath, Chief of Police Collins, Deputy Sheriff John Fickelstein, Officers Henry Mengels, Clyde Genocchio, Edward McAniff and Harold Powers, manager of the Pacific Portland Cement plant.

Three Miss Death In Crossing Crash

Three men in a roadster, A. Martines of this city, and his two sons, A. Martines, Jr., and F. Martines, missed death by what is regarded as a miracle when their car was crashed beneath the speeding Lark, fast S. P. limited train. The accident occurred Tuesday at the Main street crossing.

The car was driven by A. Martines, Jr., who was hurrying to get ahead of a south bound passenger train. In watching the approaching train from the north the driver failed to see the closer train from the south, and ran on to the track directly in front of the Lark.

The train struck the car amidships tossing it into the air and catching it forcefully on the cowcatcher again where it rested while the train, now slowing to a stop traversed almost a block. When the train was stopped while they expected the dying men in the wreckage of their car. Instead, however, the three men climbed down without difficulty from the tangled mass of wreckage which had been the roadster. None was badly hurt.

Witnesses to accident stated that the flagman was at his post at the time of the accident occurred, but that the driver of the car failed to heed the warning signal of the watchman when driving on to the track.

FISHERMEN FAIL TO APPEAR IN COURT

August Cerrutti and August Chiso, both of San Francisco were arrested this week by Game Warden Jack Burk. They were summoned to appear and face charges in the court of Justice of the Peace Ray Griffin; Cerrutti of catching striped bass with a fixed net, and Chiso of a similar charge and also of fishing without a license. Neither of the men appeared yesterday when their case was called, and warrants were issued by Judge Griffin for their arrest.

New Pharmacy To Open Here

The Sequoia Pharmacy at 606 Broadway will be opened next week by Wm. Schoelless, formerly of this city and proprietor of the San Carlos Pharmacy in San Carlos. The new drug store will occupy a portion of the building recently completed by Henry and Carl Beeger at the intersection of Broadway and Perry street.

Schoelless is well known here, having for several years been connected with the Ryan drug stores in this city. He and Mrs. Schoelless have their home here. They returned to their former home in New York some time ago and have since been looking for a suitable location to start in business. Redwood City, Schoelless states, is the best location which he has been able to find in California.

A full line of drugs, toilet articles and novelties is being installed and the store made ready for a big opening sale next week. Schoelless is a capable pharmacist. He graduated from a pharmacy school in 1913 and has been engaged in the drug business since that time.

TANFORAN TO OPEN FOR RACES

The final detail which assures the Peninsula of a thoroughbred race meeting at Tanforan this fall was completed this week, with the announcement by Judge Joseph A. Murphy, prominent Chicago turfman, that the lease of the track had been signed. The deal was consummated, after a conference between Murphy and representatives of the Tanforan property held Tuesday afternoon.

The Tanforan meeting will open Saturday, October 29, and close Saturday, December 10, a period of 37 racing days.

Judge Murphy will leave today for Kansas City for a conference with Missouri business interests in regard to the opening of three tracks in that state. The Missouri Supreme Court last Monday handed down a decision which in effect means that the subscription form of wagering, which will also be inaugurated at Tanforan, is within the law.

NEW ROUTE FOR ROAD ON COASTSIDE CLIFFS

The course of the road along the shoreline of the county between Princeton and Granada was changed on Monday by action of the board of supervisors. Several portions of the road along the cliffs were destroyed during last winter by the rough water. The new course of the road is back about a quarter of a mile from the ocean.

The resolution to change the route of the highway was made on a motion by Supervisor Brown, seconded by Supervisor Hickey. It was opposed by Supervisor Francis. Bids for the construction of a twenty-foot concrete roadway over the new route of the road were also called for at this time to be opened on September 6.

To Sail With Second A.E.F.

Those are some of the 825 new laws which went into effect. The balance of the 898 measures passed by the 1927 Legislature will become operative between now and August 3.

The trustees of the high school of Redding have let the contract for furnishing the new building. The total cost of the furniture is $8765.35 and it is to be in place inside of thirty days. The $350,000 building will be ready for the opening of the terms in September.

California's population will reach 10,000,000 in 1950, Captain G. B. Baldwin, representing the educational department of the Pacific Gas and Electric Company, told members of the Auburn Lions Club. He asserted the greatest portion of the growth will be in Northern California. This estimate was compiled by the Pacific Gas and Electric Company in mapping plans for the future, he stated.

Carl J. Hauser, San Francisco, saved himself a certain life sentence in a California penitentiary by pleading to a charge of burglary, his third offense. Had he delayed his plea for a few days he would have been sentenced under the new law which went into effect on July 29, and under which the sentence for third offenders is life imprisonment. The trial judge will fix the penalty this week under the old law.

President Ellis Franklin of the Placer County Public Anglers' Association announces the appointment of a committee of six members to work with the state fish and game commission representatives this year in the planting of 300,000 trout in Placer county streams.

It is to cost Redlands about $5000 more each month for $60,000 a year, to buy new roads for the State under the one cent additional gasoline tax. It has been estimated. It is estimated that there are close to half a million gallons of gasoline sold in the Redlands district each month in the year.

On a death and the serious illness of four persons led to an investigation by the Kern county health officials of what is believed to be a poison spring on the Tehachapi highway at Kaad station, thirty miles east of Bakersfield.

FAMOUS MINING STRIKES

By THOMAS E. STEWARD

Great Source of American Steel

BILLIONS of dollars' worth of gold, silver, copper and other metals had been extracted from American mines before the mines which were to be more important than any others were even thought of. This reference is to the colossal deposits of iron ore in northern Minnesota, which in less than 40 years have been the basis on which the American steel industry has risen to a position of almost world supremacy. And this remarkably important deposit was only discovered and proved up in 1801-1802, the same year in which the Comstock lode was found.

The Mesabi iron district lies in the part of Minnesota which is northwest of Lake Superior. Charles K. Leith, a celebrated geologist, has described it as extending from Grand Rapids, on the Mississippi river, northward for 100 miles to Birch lake. Its width varying from two to ten miles. Over most of the extent of this range the ore is in a relatively loose, earthy form, and lies so near the surface that it is extracted by open pit mining. The surface is scraped off, tracks are run into the pit, and steam shovels load the ore into cars.

The main topographic feature of the district is the ridge or "range" of hills known as the Giant or Mesabi range, Mesabi being the Indian word for giant. At its west end the range gradually slopes off to the level of the surrounding country, about 1,400 feet above sea level, or 800 feet above the level of Lake Superior. Toward the eastern end, the range becomes higher and higher, rising at a maximum 1,900 feet above sea level and 400 to 500 feet above the country between it and the Great Lakes.

This "Iron Range," as Minnesotans call it, has added interest because it is part of the height of land that divides the waters flowing through the Mississippi into the Gulf of Mexico from those that flow northward into Hudson's bay and the Arctic regions. In its climate and vegetable life, the Iron range savors strongly of the Great North. It lies, indeed, well inside the famous Minnesota north woods, with their deer, moose, bear, trout and landlocked salmon. Over much of the actual range, however, the scene is a relatively desolate one. Pit mines, old and new, have thrown great scars of clay across the landscape, where they lie, yellow, reddish, or blue-green, according to the immediate nature of the soil, like mammoth wounds in the clear green surface of the surrounding forest. Old choppings, windfalls, fires, underbrush, and thick swamp combine to make the near-by country difficult to travel.

Alaska's Wealth in Copper

ALTHOUGH gold was the source of Alaska's fame as a mining country, copper was the first valuable metal found in that territory, and it is to copper and coal that Alaskan miners have returned for the most part, though scattered adventurers still extract a livelihood from the placer gold deposits along Alaskan rivers.

Today the leading copper mine in Alaska is the Kennicott, named after the famous Kennicott glacier, past which so many thousand weary prospectors trudged in 1898, '99 and 1900, when the rush to the interior was on by way of Valdez as well as over the Skagway pass.

Copper was first reported in Alaska by the Bering expedition in 1741. Before American capital began to develop Alaskan copper deposits, the natives of the Copper River country were known to have access to easily workable deposits. The natives used it for arrowheads, later for bullets and cooking utensils, and copper knives were said still to be in use when the white man first visited the country. The Indians obtained their copper by washing the particles out of sand along the rivers, just as the Americans later obtained their gold. They did not have the means for working mines in the rock, and little of the free copper in rich nuggets that became so well known in Upper Michigan has been found in Alaska.

It is stated by the United States geological survey that the copper mines of the Indians were mostly along rivers in ravines that had been freed from ice for only a few hundred years following the retreat of the glaciers. This makes more remarkable the swift spread of copper articles within the short period after the natives discovered its value.

The true extent of Alaskan copper deposits was not discovered so much by private initiative as by an expedition of the United States geological survey that was sent into the Copper River country in 1898 by the government. The difficulties of the adventure were too great for individual prospectors to attempt, especially at a time when practically all attention was turned toward the gold fields of the Yukon.

Prior to these explorations the Alaskan shore and part of the interior had been visited by a long series of explorers, including the famous Captain Cook and a long list of English, Spanish and Russian scientists, soldiers and adventurers. The first American expedition was sent out in 1822.

Cats Their Special Pets

Victor Hugo had a great aversion for dogs, preferring the cat. In his salon was always to be seen a big black cat, which was treated with the greatest consideration. "Chateaubriand kept half a dozen cats, of which he was very fond. Visiting or calling upon him was sometimes a trying experience for those who did not like cats; but to that Chateaubriand, even when serving abroad as an ambassador, paid no attention. Exchange.

by O. Lawrence Hawthorne

FRIDAY, AUGUST 5, 1927.

Those who protested, no doubt, did so with an earnest conviction that they were doing so in the best interest of their property, but we can not but believe that when the street is completed and the great advantage of the improvement becomes apparent, that even the most vigorous opponent of the plan will admit that the cost to them of the improvement was little compared with the advantages which will accrue from the work.

The American people have "soiled their hands by dipping them in the polluted waters of commercialized diplomacy," he said. The recent battle between United States marines and Nicaraguans, he asserted, represented "the cost in human lives of an attempt to maintain our will on a weak nation and maintain in power a minority government."

Sir: One day during the late world war the trenches were very near together. Thereupon the Germans put up a board inscribed "The English are fools"! The boys shot it down. Another appeared, "The French are fools"! Also shot down. A third popped up "We are ALL fools, let's all go home!" Today President Coolidge is telling us the same thing, but, of course, in more diplomatic language. Listen!

"It is for the generation that saw and survived the world war to devise measures of prevention; if we fail in this we shall deserve all the disaster that will surely be visited on us because of our failure!"

One of our leading men, Houghton, ambassador to Great Britain, makes the suggestion that the power to make war should be taken from the little groups of men that constitute our "governments" and placed in the hands of the people. When, consequent on their mismanagement of public affairs, the politicians publish propaganda inducing fear, suspicion, and hate of neighbor nations, and clamor for war, a direct vote of the people should be taken as to "War!" or "No War!" the majority, of course, to decide.

Even then the pacifists would suffer; for modern war methods, poison gas, "Killing rays," disease germs, high explosives, blockades, etc., spare no one, not even civilians in world capitals. If this is not sheer idiocy, what is it? Well, brother and sister, what are you going to do in response to the Coolidge message?

This means YOU! as well as,
Yours cordially,
EDWARD BERWICK

Determined to find the causes, if possible, of the numerous fatal automobile accidents on California highways, Alexander R. Heron, new state director of finance, this week gave orders to the division of motor vehicles for a rigid enforcement of the new section of the motor vehicle act requiring all drivers involved in smash-ups resulting in injury or death to make an immediate report to the proper authorities.

The new act, which became effective last week, requires such drivers to forward a report, within 24 hours, to the division or to police headquarters if the accident occurs within the incorporated limits of a town or city.

Police departments and other peace officials are likewise required to forward these reports to the division.

The purpose of the new section, Heron explained, is to permit the division to prepare statistics analyzing the cause and location of highway accidents to be used as a

by Daniel P. Howley

Mr. Daniel P. Howley, the gifted scholar of East Weymouth, Mass., is putting a new and versatile touch to baseball coaching. Professor Howley, who has plenty of voice, stands on the coaching line and yells to the batter:

"You're gonna walk."

He keeps this line for a few minutes and then cracks a new one:

"There's gonna walk you NOW!"

He is another switch that the professor uses. At times he yells:

"He'll walk you, boy! He'll walk you!"

So the baseball language of the day acquires another gem.

Diamond Notes

There are two sides to everything, but try to make an umpire believe it.

Pitching continues to cause Manager Ray Schalk a lot of worry these days.

Tennis and baseball were the only paying sports last year at the Hacing Club de France.

Carl Mays, Cincinnati pitcher, is one of the best hitting twirlers in the game. He has a near .400 average.

Paul Kinney, former star pitcher of Colgate university, has been sold by the Syracuse Stars to the Albany club of the Eastern league.

The Pacific Coast league has released Umpire Thomas Crooke. What allusions must have been made when that young man was umpiring.

Wilbert Robinson, manager-president of the Brooklyn Robins, observed his sixty-third birthday on June 23. He was born in 1864.

Lazzeri is fully as fine a shortstop as he is a second baseman. His strong throwing arm is seen to better advantage at short than at second, however.

Lou Gehrig, home-run swatting first baseman of the Yankees, learned his baseball at Columbia university as one of the liberal advantages of a college education.

Raymond (Snooks) Dowd, veteran infielder, has been released by Bridgeport because of a bad throwing arm. He was the leading base runner of the league.

Patsy Donovan, veteran manager, was released by the Providence club, and his place was taken by Eddie Eays, outfielder, who had been acting as captain.

Samuel "Red" Nevis of Hokendauqua, Pa., captain and star catcher of the Lehigh university nine during the 1927 season, has joined the world's champion Cardinals.

Arthur Fox, baseball coach at Williams college, has joined the Boston Red Sox for a trial. He was a star at Brown university and has had minor league experience.

The Waner brothers are doing a nice little job of work as Pirates. Seldom you'll find two Pirates in one family, one batting the other around the bases the way those boys do.

Tommy Connolly, veteran umpire of the American league, suffered a broken nose when Todd of the Red Sox threw wild to first base and struck the arbirer who was officiating there.

Benny Karr, who pitched for the Cleveland Indians the last two and a half seasons, has been traded to New Orleans of the Southern association for Walter Brown, promising young right-hander.

Roy Chesterfield, promising right-hander until he showed up at training camp with a bad arm, has been released by the Yankees to Chattanooga of the Southern league. An option is held on him.

Charles Newbill, Idaho Falls Spuds' pitching ace, entered the baseball hall of fame when he hurled the first no-hit, no-run game in the history of the Utah-Idaho baseball league, defeating Twin Falls by a score of 4 to 0.

According to a well-founded report the Milwaukee baseball club of the American association will be sold at the end of the present season to persons connected or closely allied with the Chicago National league club.

The Pittsfield club has sold Shortstop Mervin Smith to Beaumont of the Texas league. Catcher Brick Wilder, late of Shreveport of the Texas league, has been signed by Pittsfield.

College men are not necessarily the best league baseball players, but if they have the ability they are "bet-thinkable to cash in," because they think faster, in the opinion of Clark Griffith, president of the Nationals.—Washington Star.

Sam West Is Fast

Photograph of Sam West, fast outfielder, whom Manager Bucky Harris is carrying on the Washington roster as a substitute outer gardener in case anything happens to his star regulars.

Sporting Squibs

Anyhow, both Lindbergh and Bobby Jones achieved fame with sticks.

Japan will enter an eight-oared shell crew in the Amsterdam Olympics.

Robert Netolicky, Cedar Rapids, has been elected captain of the University of Iowa's tennis team for next season.

Some stoics prefer to sit on the tops of flag poles for 12 days at a stretch while other patronize wrestling matches.

If open-air boxing shows are not always the successes they were expected to be it is because the fans give them the air.

Roland Locke, the University of Nebraska sprinting ace, may take up the practice of law in New York city and continue his athletic activities as a member of the New York Athletic club.

Tom Armour, United States open golf champion, has been a professional for less than a year, having been engaged by the Congressional Country club of Washington, in the winter of 1923.

Tom Edwards, four-letter man at the University of Michigan and all-American football tackle, is a member of the Detroit police department. He coaches the police athletic teams when not walking beat.

Four members of the British Ryder Cup team—Duncan, Ray, Boomer and Havers—have won 12 open titles. Of the American Ryder team only Hazen and Sarazan have finished first in big international open events.

It's rapidly approaching the point where another of the barred holds of wrestling will be the hold on the public.

Joseph Griffin of Detroit has been named track captain for Notre Dame in 1928. He is a hurdler and high jumper.

"Well," observed the stout party in the knicker, "if I can hit as many things learning to drive a golf ball as I did learning to drive a car, I should be good."

Cardinals to Cause Much Grief in 1927

St. Louis will cause a great deal of grief in the National before the season is over.

The Cardinals continue a good ball team and Bob O'Farrell is a good manager.

O'Farrell is possessed of the same quality of leadership that distinguishes Bush and McCarthy. He is a diplomat.

When O'Farrell is working behind the plate, the Cardinals are 20 per cent stronger than when O'Farrell is managing from the bench. A manager who is also a catcher has an advantage that comes in his work with the pitcher. Also, he holds the strategic position of the playing field. Backed by managerial authority he stands in the spot where he can best control the play.

As long as O'Farrell can be in the lineup the Cardinals will be a mighty hard team to stop, writes H. G. Salsinger in the Detroit News.

The National league pennant seems destined to come West again this year, Pittsburgh being classed as a western team.

THE HATED WOMAN

(By D. J. Walsh.)

ELLEN CASS closed the door behind her and ran out to where her husband was doing some last tinkering on the newly acquired second-hand flvver. As she appeared he drew his head from under the hood with a sigh of satisfaction.

"It will get you there now, I guess," he said. "But drive carefully, dear. No speeding!"

"Speeding! On these roads!" Ellen laughed as she jumped in. "All right. Here I go. Don't forget to pop the potatoes into the oven so they'll be baked by the time I get back."

It was the first time since her marriage that Ellen had gone to town alone. But Dan had some important things to see to and could not accompany her. Although it was a new experience to drive unaided, she loved new experiences. Her heart was light as she bounced along, her cheeks glowing, her blue eyes bright with the exhilaration lent by the wind, motion and excitement.

The sun was shining. A day of days full of tang and charm. Her pulses raised as the vigorous little engine throbbed its way onward.

A turn by the waterfall and she came upon a woman who was taking some papers from the battered mail box by the roadside. The woman lifted her head, her eyes met Ellen's, she half smiled in recognition, but Ellen did without a word.

Speak to Amy Lester! Never! Why, she hated Amy with the one evil spark in her young heart. For Amy had been Dan's first love. He had told Ellen about it—how near he had come to marrying Amy, just so near as Amy would let him, that is. She had refused him with that scornful laugh of hers; that sideways glance of any normal woman refusing Dan! Though that was not so bitter as the thought that Amy had first place in his heart. No, she could never forgive Amy that, never! What girl could who feels she has taken second place? Not that Dan now cared for Amy. He was all wrapped up in his wife, Ellen knew. But it was left for Ellen to show Amy how much she had been lightly regarded his love, she must see now that it had been good enough for a superior woman. And Ellen felt she was superior in looks and intellect and all that makes a desirable woman.

Still, even the sight of the hated woman could not spoil Ellen's good time for her. She enjoyed her drive, enjoyed her town with its shops, people and general attractions. She popped into the candy kitchen for a taste of soda. She bought a new magazine for Dan and took great pains with her household list, choosing coffee and sugar as if they were silk and satin. She went to the bank for Dan, she got a wrench at the hardware store and then was ready to go home.

The flvver had grown cold. It shivered and rebelled as she applied the starter button. Then it gave in and away they went on their home journey.

A few miles out of town she had a blowout. This meant changing a tire, and she had never changed a tire before although she knew how. By the time she was on her way again she noticed that the weather had changed. The sky was gray, right down to the tops of the hills the wind was beating Ellen's cheeks, trying to run away with her hat and scarf.

"We're going home no more to town," Ellen always sang that on the return journey. She sang it now, but somehow it failed of its effect. Perhaps it was because she was alone.

And now suddenly she felt a cold caress on her chin. She looked up. Snowflakes! A million of them up there swarming like gnats. Snowflakes on her brown coat, gumming the windshield, covering the radiator. It was difficult to drive, for even after Ellen had turned on the headlights she found that they penetrated but feebly into the fast-thickened gloom.

Suppose she got lost! It was possible, especially when she came to the forks of the road. There was no sign post here; if there had been she could not have read it.

She began to drive slowly and cautiously, fearful of getting off the track, which the snowflakes fast obliterated. She felt queer and miserable. Then suddenly the car jolted terribly, bumped into something and stopped.

Ellen gave a sharp little cry. The cry was torn from her by that swift terror of concussion. Then she regained calm.

"What a fool I am!" she thought. "There's nobody to hear me."

She got out of the car and tried to make an examination of the damage done. She could not see a thing, but she felt here and there—at the headlights, the fenders, the radiator. All safe. The bumper had saved her. She had struck something hard, but the good old bumper had not given way. The obstacle, however, had gone down in the shock of impact. A small tree—or post. She touched something with her foot, heard a rattle and picked up a tin box—a mail box.

And now she knew where she was. This was Amy Lester's mail box that she had knocked down. It meant that she was not out of the road—at least not far. She hesitated, inclined to go on, yet feeling she ought to do something about the mail box. She called as loudly as she could through the snow, "Mrs. Lester! Mrs. Lester!" A voice answered. "Hello! What's the matter?"

"I ran into your mail box and knocked it down," Ellen shouted. "Wait! I'm coming."

Through the opaque veil of the snow a shadow appeared—Amy Lester.

"What happened?" she asked. Ellen told her. "Oh, it's you, Mrs. Cass! I remember seeing you go by. Come into the house and stay until it stops snowing. It's only a squall. Can't last much longer. If you go you may run into something more than a mail box. Here! Give me your hand. Now come along. Look out for that step. Here we are."

She opened the door and Ellen found herself in a warm, pleasant room with flowers, color and the glow of a golden lamp.

"Take off your things and sit down. I'll make a cup of tea," Amy said. She was a spirited, dark woman with flashing white teeth.

"Don't bother," Ellen murmured. It was nice to be in out of the storm, to stop fighting the white cobwebs. In a few moments she had a cup of tea in one hand and a cake in the other. Just as Amy had. They slipped, nibbled, looked at each other and chatted sociably.

"Don't bother about the mail box," Amy said. "Tom will see to that. I am glad you struck that instead of the big ash the other side of the road. Well, at least we are acquainted—at last. And I'm going to like you. And you're going to like me. No reason why we shouldn't be friends. I'm married and you're married and we've both got the best men in the world." She laughed. "Do you know, Dan Cass didn't care a rap for me? He is four years younger than I am. It was his mother who wanted him to marry me. But I knew better. Land, yes, Dan and I would never have got along—oh, here's Tom!"

A big handsome young fellow came in at the back door. There was an interval during which introductions were made and a few pleasant things said.

"Say," Tom laughed, "storm's over. You girls noticed it?"

They hadn't, but it was true. Ellen sprang up, her face beaming.

"I've got to send home. But before I go I want you folks to promise to come over tomorrow night to supper. Even if you are the best cook in the world, Mrs. Lester, I've simply got to show you how good I can fry chicken."

They laughed as they gladly accepted the invitation.

Over the snowy road facing a suddenly golden sunset Ellen made her way. Her heart was light. The hated woman—why, there wasn't any hated woman any more. There was just Amy Lester, her friend.

Saving Pine Trees

The pine forests of the future will not perish in infancy if the recent research efforts of J. Stewart Want of the New York State College of Agriculture are put to practical use. Hitherto there has always been a heavy mortality in pine plants started from seed in forest nurseries and later set in the hope that they may become huge trees a century or so later. The tender young plants are easily killed by parasitic soil fungi.

Doctor Want finds that soil treatment with several chemicals, especially with sodium recently discovered chlorophenol mercury compounds, destroys these parasites and permits the baby pines to develop until they are strong enough to be secure against these enemies.—Science Magazine.

Pictures Long Hidden

Pictures that had been hidden for many years were revealed recently by workmen renovating an ancient building in Prague, Czechoslovakia. The walls of the structure were decorated with figures producing an effect similar to that on pottery, and when the coating of dust and paint was removed, the art work was clearly shown. The pictures had been worked in plaster, an imitation of bas-relief being effected by laying a coat of white over one of black and then moving over of the upper coating to expose the black in the desired designs and patterns. They are being preserved as curiosities.

So Many Uninteresting People, and Just Why

Take language, for example—you think you use almost limitless number of words. As a matter of fact, few of us adults use more than 18,000 words. Most of us get along on less than 2,000, many get along on 500 to 800 words.

Society in America as we have it today calls upon us to possess such a simple set of adjustments. Our accomplishments, even our words and sentences, are so limited and stereotyped that you can pretty well predict what the majority of men and women are going to say and do in most situations. We are so stupidly uninteresting.

That is one of my quarrels with society. We let the individual stop at the 12 by 12 multiplication table. We let him get away with rotten tennis, unscientific and unsound business methods, with conversation at the level of a moron.

There used to be a guild system where perfection of hand and finger responses was called for, almost up to the physiological limit of the individual's ability. Think of the tapestry that used to be woven, of the fine laces that used to be made, of the carvings that even the boys could make. And in the vocal field remember that once every troubadour was a virtuoso.

This is not a cry for the good old days. It is not a wall that we have degenerated in eye, hand and muscle. Not at all—the thing is there crying to be whirled into shape. It is a cry for getting some kind of shock punishment in the environment which will force all of us to develop to the limit of our capabilities.

I have an undying respect for what we can do with that squirming mass of protoplasm we call the human infant—John B. Watson in Harper's Magazine.

That there are more professional musicians than lawyers or clergymen in this country is shown by a report recently given out by a music house

McLOUGHLIN PUT SPEED IN TENNIS

Tilden's Style Causes Many to Credit Him.

J. P. Allen says that there has been so much discussion about Big Bill Tilden's employment of speed, a weapon he appears to have been using unthinkingly in Europe, that an impression has grown up that Tilden is responsible for putting the lightning strokes in the game. That invention cannot be credited to the tall Pennsylvanian.

The amazing speed in lawn tennis, speed which has made it necessary to change completely the method of racket construction, was entirely due to the advent of the Californians, chiefly of Maurice E. McLoughlin in the national championship tournament on the turf of the Casino at Newport, R. I., in August, 1909.

The entry list was as stale as dishwater. And as for Californians, there was a little group of four players—McLoughlin, Thomas C. Bundy, Melville E. Long and Simpson Sinsabaugh.

With a somewhat drab tournament forecast, there was no end of amazement when McLoughlin let loose his devastating speed. New as he was to grass, the red-haired youth, who was afterward to win the name of "the California Comet" in Australia, literally cut opponents to pieces. Right at the beginning there were two elements that carried McLoughlin along as if on the crest of a tidal wave. First, his terrific service—a service which Tilden as a youth watched and studied and which he now employs most ably—and the wonderful ability to get up to the net to smash the return.

McFarland Likes Races

Packey McFarland, once the light-weight boxing idol of the Chicago stockyards district, is trying to prove that prize ring heroes can be successful horse owners. Young Corbett, Terry McGovern, Johnny Lunde and others tried it, but wound up owing themselves money. Packey is campaigning races under the name of the Joliet Stables. One of his thoroughbreds is Captain Dolan, Kentucky Derby candidate in 1925. McFarland quit the ring years ago with a neat fortune and has since added to it.

Poor Man's Sport

Track athletics, especially distance running, is the poor man's sport. He needs only his shoes, his cheap running suit, and a place to stretch a leg. Most distance men have no trainers, and must prepare themselves until they can make a reputation. They usually work hard all day, either in shops or at desks, and must perform use their leisure hours for training.—Herbert Reed in the Outlook.

Schupp in Comeback

Ferdinand Schupp, sensational New York Giant pitcher back in 1914-17, has visions of a comeback which will land him in the majors again. At thirty-six he has started his uphill climb with Indianapolis, in the American association, showing some of his old cunning in early games. The veteran left-hander says his arm, hurt in 1915, never felt right until this season. The injury changed his style. This spring his arm felt so good he returned to the old style.

Duration of Soviet Rule Easily Proved

"Comrade" Kallinin is president of the soviet union. He is a peasant by origin. Like all good presidents Kallinin makes a speech occasionally. He makes a specialty of addressing peasant audiences. Not long ago he made a speech at a farmers' reunion not so far from Nizhny. The president was drawing a grandiloquent picture of life under the soviet regime. At the outset he told his peasant listeners that Russia was the first country to throw off the yoke. Suddenly he was interrupted. Interruptions are not infrequent in peasant districts. "We have land and freedom," cried one farmer, "but under the czar some of us had three pairs of pants and now we have only one."

"Comrades," replied the comrade president, "the negroes of Africa have no pants at all!" "How is that?" came back the voice from the audience. "You told us we were the first to be sovietsed, but if those people in Africa have no pants at all, they must have had soviet rule for at least 20 years."—Pierre Van Passen, in the Atlanta Constitution.

Minnow Just Had to Do That Little Stunt

Dwight M. Morrow, the New York banker, had been talking to a Washington correspondent about the difficulties of the Mexican situation. "And when these difficulties seem insurmountable," Mr. Morrow ended, "I think of the minnow story, and then I roll up my sleeves a little higher and pitch in again."

"Uncle Wiggley," you know, was telling his small nephew a bedtime story about a minnow. This minnow now was enjoying life peacefully when one day a great big trout suddenly dashed at him with open mouth.

"The minnow turned like the wind, swam ashore, landed, and went leaping from rock to rock up the steep bank of the stream."

"But, Uncle Wiggley," the little boy interrupted, "how could a minnow leap from rock to rock?"

"By George," said Uncle Wiggley, "he had to!"

Pecans

The bulk of the commercial production of pecans is at present in Texas, Oklahoma, Louisiana, Mississippi, Georgia and Florida. But the tree is native to river bottoms from Indiana and Iowa southwest into Mexico. Southeastern states and California have taken up pecan growing to some extent, but there has been little commercial success with these trees north of latitude 40 degrees.

The tree attains a height of 75 to 170 feet. The crop is harvested when the great majority of the nut husks have opened. As a rule it is disposed of before Thanksgiving.

Yes, He Was Mortified

A holdup stopped A. Mc Utt, Springfield, Ill., late a recent night, and ordered him to "stick 'em up." Utt has only one arm but put that up and chided the bandit. "Ain't you ashamed to rob a one-armed man?" asked Utt. "I never was so mortified in my life," the thug answered, "but business is business."—Copper's Weekly.

"Aren't I" or "Ain't I" George Bernard Shaw is quoted as being out to put an end to the "diminutive affection" of present-day English writers who see an evidence of culture in using "aren't I" instead of "am I not." "Aren't," says the writer quoted, is plural and "I" is singular. You would not say "Are I not right," would you? Then why use the plural form in the contraction. The homely form "ain't" is much more nearly correct, being derived directly from "amnt," the contraction of "am not."

Physician Equips Office Here

Dr. W. H. Ziebert, the local physician, believes in keeping abreast of the times. He recently equipped his office in the Brown building with a number of modern appliances that will materially aid him in his work. He has installed a quartz light, ultra ray, which aids in curing skin diseases, a high frequency machine for pneumonia and kindred diseases and a low volt generator for nervous ailments. His office is one of the best equipped in the county.

School Opens Monday, Aug. 22

The grammar school will open on Monday, August 22. The Fremont school in Stanford Park will open with two teachers taken from the central school in Menlo Park. Fifty pupils from the latter school will attend the Stanford Park school. The trustees are endeavoring to get along with only one new teacher.

Looking for an Airport

It was rumored yesterday that the U. S. government is looking for a location for an airport in this vicinity and that it had several sites under consideration. Let us hope the report is well founded. While it is quite true that many of our residents are already up in the air, the establishment of an airport in Menlo Park would be a big asset to the community.

"The Best Bad Man"

The following is the program for the New Menlo Theatre for the coming week: Friday evening, Tom Mix and Clara Bow in "The Best Bad Man." Saturday evening, Carol Dempster with a big star cast in "One Exciting Night." Sunday and Monday Peter Kne's story, "The Understanding Heart." Tuesday Charlie Chaplin in "Shoulder Arms." Wednesday Belle Bennett in "Mother." Wednesday and Thursday double bill Ben Lyon and Allen Pringle in "The Great Deception" and Ranger the Wonder Dog in "When a Dog Loves."

Tickets For Sale At Atherton

For the accommodation of its patrons at Atherton, the Southern Pacific Company has inaugurated a new system whereby the assistant agent here occupies the station there the day before and on the first day of each month to sell commutation tickets to the people living in that district and going to the city daily. Heretofore the commuters were obliged to come to Menlo Park for their tickets or else secure them in San Francisco during the rush hours at the city depot which caused much delay and annoyance. T. J. Rourke, Southern Pacific officer, will assist the agent on these occasions. The new system went into effect on the first of the month.

To Lay Corner Stone Tomorrow

The corner stone of the Corpus Christi monastery on Oak Grove avenue will be formally laid Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock with appropriate ceremonies. Archbishop E. J. Hanna will perform the impressive ceremony, assisted by a large number of the clergy of the diocese. The public is invited. A large crowd will witness the service. The building when completed will cost in the neighborhood of $300,000. It is to be four stories in height. Over the chapel a tower seventy-five feet high will be constructed and on the top of it will be a large cross with electric lights that are to be lighted during the long hours of the night. The chapel will be opened all night for the adoration of the host that is to be always exposed on the altar.

J. Tupper, an official in the Bank of California, San Francisco, has purchased the Carroll property on Live Oak avenue and Roble avenue on which he is to erect a cozy home very soon. The dwelling on the lot was burned recently.

Mauzac Home Purchased

The Mauzac home on Menlo avenue has been purchased by A. Bianco, the new owner of the New Menlo Theatre. The dwelling is to be improved and added to and with all the contemplated improvements are finished it will be occupied by Mr. Bianco and his family.

Paddy Rellly Injured

Paddy Rellly, a character about town, was severely injured last Saturday in an automobile accident near San Mateo. Rellly suffered the fracture of the bones of his right leg. He was taken to the Community hospital at Boreasford, where he will be confined for some time.

Water Softener Installed

Leon Douglas has established a $2500 water softener at his home. It is a new invention that softens the water which at times becomes hard and unfit for practical use.

It is to be hoped that some thing will be done shortly to improve the Willow Road as it is now almost impassable. It is the main thoroughfare off the Dumbarton bridge and the congestion there at times is unbearable. This road should be widened, the angles removed and macadamized. The property owners are ready to give the land for the widening of the road. Action is all that is needed to make this a popular thoroughfare.

Joe Ahlert has completed the installation of a pumping plant for Hugh Porter, costing $12,000. He has also put in a filter that cost $7000. All the water that comes from the well, that supplies the estate is filtered. The new machine filters 300 gallons a minute. It is believed by this means that the lawns and flower beds will be freer from weeds and other deleterious substances. (Return From Canada) John Doyle and wife have just returned from a motor trip to Canada, where they spent some time at the boyhood home of Mr. Doyle. They had a delightful time visiting all points of interest in the north.

N. S. & N. D. To Hold Carnival

The Native Sons and Native Daughters will hold a carnival in Ferrando's Park Saturday evening. The new dance pavilion will be used for the first time that evening, where dancing is to continue until 2 a. m. A country store, a fortune teller booth and a booth where fancy articles will be sold by a number of the prettiest girls in Menlo Park, and this place boasts of the comeliest young ladies in the state. The proceeds of the sale will go towards the Ninth of September celebration. Admission to the grounds, free, however, it would be well to take a plethora of stook for you may need it when you appear upon the scene of merriment with all sorts of attraction to appeal to you.

Ward, a colored car washer employed by a local garage, was arrested by Chief of Police Collins and his house in South Redwood was searched, resulting in the seizure of the liquor and the finding, according to Collins of a large number of bottles which had contained liquor.

Ward plead "not guilty" before Justice of the Peace Ray Griffin and asked for a jury trial. When the jury was summoned he announced to Assistant District Attorney Ed. Scott that he would change his plea to "guilty." He was sentenced by Judge Griffin to pay a fine of $500 or spend 30 days in the county jail.

means of ordinary recreation and many needed comforts for these unfortunate people who know no other abiding place.

Rehearsals of the large chorus of mixed voices are being held twice weekly, the one hundred trained male and female voices being selected from the Choral and Vocal clubs on the peninsula and bay region as well. Prominent singing artists, on the coast have been selected for the principal roles, the leading baritone to be Harold E. Dans of San Francisco, credited as possessing the finest baritone voice on the coast, and one familiar to all devotees of the radio and frequently heard over the "Orange Net." The mezzo soprano of Mary Groom Richards will be heard in the leading female role of "Wildflower" and the tenor of Gwynfi Jones of Berkeley should prove adequate to the exacting numbers of the love-making of Redfeather around whom the theme is written. Myriad James as "Grey Wolf," the aggressive warrior should be heard to equal advantage his bass voice full-filling all the requirements of the part.

An orchestra especially selected for the requirements of the score, and will enjoy the distinction of being conducted by the composer, Mr. Cadogan, coming to Hillsborough for that purpose, and all music lovers will be delighted with the opportunity of enjoying this unique offering presented under the personal direction of this famous writer of Indian music. Brodwin will interpret the dances incidental to the score which will include the "Invocation," "Medicine" and "War dances." Special lighting effects will enhance the beauty of the natural rugged scenery particularly suited as a setting for the unfolding of the struggle of the Red man to regain his supremacy and freedom to again roam the fields.

INJURIES ARE FATAL

Injuries received several weeks ago when run over by an automobile, resulted in the death of Fred E. Brodwin, a plasterer of Oakland. Brodwin passed away in the Community hospital, where he was taken on July 12, following the accident.

Brodwin and another plasterer were to have started work on a new house here and were sleeping in a tent on the lot on which the house was being built. During the night R. E. Davis, nephew of the contractor for whom the plasterers were working drove to the house, and not seeing the tent, drove over Brodwin, who was asleep. Collins, his companion, was not seriously injured.

The injured man was given emergency treatment at the Redwood City hospital before being taken to the Community hospital. He was a native of Sweden and was 24 years of age. He is survived by a wife and a 7 months old baby in Oakland.

$30,000 BOND ELECTION FOR RAVENSWOOD

A bond election for $30,000 in bonds to be issued by the Ravenswood water district has been set by the board of supervisors for August 23. The bond issue is to cover the installation of a water system to take water from the mains of the Spring Valley Water Company and distribute it through out the district.

Charles Willard Converse, one of the circulators of the petition asking for the calling of the election was present and verified the petition and the signatures. District Attorney Swart prepared the petition and conducted the hearing. There were no protests.

The "Knack of Managing"

In the hands of the shrewd and careful housewife family funds seemingly can be "stretched." Some women, the majority in fact, have what is known as "the knack of managing." These are the clever shoppers—those women who study stores and their methods and plan each expenditure long before it is made. Of such it is often said "I just don't see how she does it." A sort of "partnership" exists between the Safeway Man and the managing type of women. She has learned to depend upon him—to use the vast facilities he offers to affect the economy that have gained her reputation for her.

Inter-City Toll Cable Lines Provide Swift and Dependable Telephone

Picture Shows Cable Line With Imaginary Open Wire Lines in Background Carrying Approximately the Same Number of Telephone Wires.

ALONG the main highway connecting some of the principal cities of the country there may be seen, stretching away into the distance, rows of short, strong poles supporting lead-covered cables. Sometimes the cable line runs parallel with an open-wire line and the contrast between the low-hung cable line and the tall open-wire pole line makes it easy to understand why the cable type of construction gives a larger measure of security from storm damage.

The completion and opening of the New York-Chicago toll cable line in 1925, followed by the completion of an extension of that line from Chicago to St. Louis and the inauguration of commercial service via all-cable routes, mark an epoch of toll cable expansion which will add thousands of miles of toll cable to the lines of the Bell System, providing the public with speedier, more dependable long distance service.

Inside the cable sheath which is composed of an alloy of lead and antimony, in circumference no larger than a man's wrist, may be as many as 500 or 600 insulated telephone wires, the equivalent of ten open-wire pole lines, each carrying from 40 to 50 open wires.

Along the aerial cable lines, about 50 miles apart, are repeater stations, substantial buildings that house the vacuum tube repeaters, and at intervals of about 6,000 feet loading pots are placed. It is at these repeater stations that the electrical current modulated by the voice, as it travels along the wires, is amplified and repeated to the next repeater station, just as in a relay race a fresh runner relieves a weary athlete and starts at top speed to cover an equal distance, then to be replaced by another, and so on until the race is finished.

Along the line, between the repeater stations, the loading pots are placed, inside of which are the voice current passes and by which the energy losses are greatly reduced.

Scientific research and inventive genius applied to telephone plant and transmission problems have made possible the use of cables for long distance transmission, and brought about the type of long distance cable construction, shown in the illustration, which is being rapidly extended.

Let's Do Our Best!

by O. Lawrence Hawthorne

"I don't see why it had to be exactly right," he said to me. "I did about the best I could! Perhaps it wasn't very good, but I was anxious to get done." And then I answered, "Listen, Son!"

"Some days it seems a waste of time To work so long to make a rhyme, Or find a word that will convey Exactly what I wish to say. Sometimes I sit and wonder, too, If something 'almost right' will do."

"Perhaps no one would ever note The careless way in which I wrote. But if we fail to do our best— No matter what may be the test— We lose a satisfaction, Son, That in no other way is won!"

"To do 'about the best' you can Will not make you the sort of man I'm sure that you would like to be. So, when you do a task for me, To have you stick and see it through Means much to me—but more to you!"

FOREST FIRE DANGERS TOLD TO EXCHANGITES

Members of the Redwood City Exchange Club were told of the dangers of the unextinguished camp fire, the carelessly thrown cigar and the flaming match at their meeting Tuesday evening by County Fire Warden Bert Werder. Werder told of the necessity for care when in the forests and warned the Exchangers about carelessness while out deer hunting. The chairman of the meeting was Wilbur Dorse. A feature of special interest was a report on the Y. M. C. A. camp for boys at Pescadero given by Rutledge, a local boy who was sent to the camp two weeks by the Redwood City Exchange Club. He was introduced by Roy Hobbins, boys' work secretary of the Y. M. C. A. in this county.

Well Known Girl Wins Scholarship

Miss Meisse visited her aunt here of Brooklyn, N. Y., and a niece of Mrs. Edward Stegemann of San Carlos and formerly of this city, who is only 15, is a graduate of the Hunters College high school, and was adjudged the most athletic and popular girl in the senior class.

Miss Meisse visited her aunt here in Redwood City for one year and attended school here. She was well known and popular with her friends and classmates in this city. The Brooklyn Times of recent issue printed a picture of the young lady and paid her a very glowing tribute.

Reckless Driver Goes to Jail

E. Ryan of White Oaks was sentenced to 25 days in the county jail Monday by Police Judge Joseph Gaffey of Burlingame, following his being found guilty on a reckless driving charge. Ryan was unable to pay a fine of $75, of the alternative sentence.

Ryan was arrested Sunday in Burlingame after he is alleged to have caused a three-car collision on the highway, near Broadway.

County's Share Is Announced

Of the $3,061,850.08 collected by the state of California during the past six months for motor vehicle taxes, $15,915.51 will be turned over to San Mateo county it was announced this week by A. R. Heron, director of finance. This apportionment is made on a basis of the number of automobiles registered from the county. The money is used to maintain the roads of the county.

W. Glasscock Is Speaker

W. L. Glasscock was the speaker before the Redwood City Kiwanis Club on Wednesday. Professor Glasscock is principal of the San Mateo high school, and is a well-known educator of the state. His topic before the Kiwanis club was boys, and his address was much appreciated by the Kiwanians. The chairman of the meeting was J. W. Poole, chairman of the county board of supervisors.

Rev. C. E. Kennedy gave a short talk on the happenings at the trustees convention held recently at San Mateo.

Services Held for Mrs. Clunie

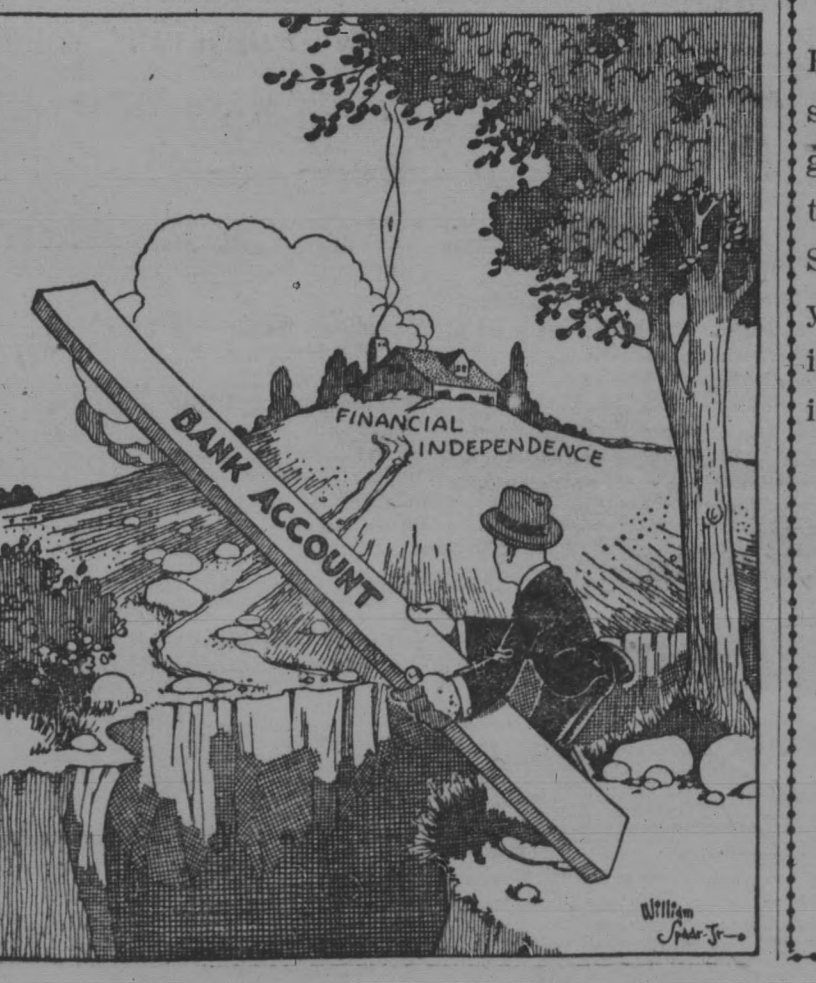

Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at the parlors of Layng & Tinney of this city for Mrs. Joel Ann Clunie, who passed away Monday at her home on Jefferson street. Rev. E. F. Hanly of the Baptist church conducted the services which were followed by interment in Cypress Lawn cemetery.

The deceased was a native of Missouri and was 75 years of age. She is survived by her husband, George T. Clunie, and by a sister, Mrs. Carmelita Burgess of San Francisco.

BIRD CATCHER PLEADS GUILTY TO CHARGES

Arrested by Game Warden Jack Burk for catching birds with a net, M. Benedetti of San Francisco, answered the charges in the court of Justice of the Peace Ray Griffin yesterday and entered a plea of guilty. He will appear for sentence at 11 o'clock this morning.

THE BRIDGE OF PROGRESS

Assessor Home From Hunting

Assessor D. P. Flynn arrived on Wednesday from Halfmoon Bay. Here he had been hunting deer. He is a member of the Halfmoon Bay Gun Club that has large preserves on the coast. Two deer were shot by the members on Tuesday. Andrew Gilcrest secured one and P. L. Lantana, the other. Portion of one deer was sent to Redwood City.

District Attorney Swart left on Wednesday for the club's hunting ground expecting to topple over a buck or two. He is an expert shot and any deer passing his way is certain to bite the dust. His friends in Redwood City are sharpening their appetites in anticipation of receiving numerous venison chops on his return to this city.

PREPARATIONS COMPLETE FOR TRANS-PACIFIC HOP

Preparations for the trans-Pacific flight to be made on August 12 from the Mills airport at San Bruno are now practically complete. It was announced this week. The closing date for registrations for the flight was at midnight Wednesday at which time sixteen were registered.

Plans for the flight are being made by the National Aeronautical Association. Next Monday, by drawing lots, the National Aeronautical association will determine the starting line-up of the planes. Flyers must hop off within a minute of the starting signal given for each departure.

Impossible

A woman I had never seen before came into our store to buy a card. Her little girl was having such a wonderful time playing with the toys she asked me if she could leave the child for a few minutes while she bought some things next door. After three hours the mother returned.

The child had been quite destructive and had broken two 50-cent toys. The mother said, "Well, as long as they're broken you might just as well give them to her. You can't sell them now."

Wasn't that cheek?—L. O. B., in Chicago Tribune.

Boitano Will Is Filed Thurs.

The last will and testament of Angelo Boitano was admitted to probate in the Superior court on Thursday. The surviving widow, Mrs. Adalgisa Boitano, was appointed executrix to serve without bonds. The estate is valued at $81,000. It consists of a half interest in a parcel of land located at San Jose valued at $10,000, ninety shares of Bank of Italy stock worth $65,000. Shares of stock in the Western Power Company $500, and notes and other personal property valued at $4,800.

The will is dated August 14, 1926. By the terms of the will Mrs. Boitano is left the entire estate.

Boitano was a pioneer grocer of Halfmoon Bay and one of the best known merchants in the county during his life time.

Dept. Called to Fire Twice

At about 8 o'clock Wednesday night and again at 11 o'clock the fire department answered a call from box 513 to find a grass fire on a lot at the corner of Hopkins and Clinton streets. The first call was for a small blaze in one corner of the lot, the second for a similar blaze in another corner. It is believed that the fire was set by someone who then called the fire department.

Sues to Collect for Building

Suit for the collection of $3,927.50 the balance due on a contract for the building of a home in San Mateo, was filed Tuesday in the Superior court here by H. Nielsen against John C. Coates and his wife, Sue Coates. The home was finished April 4, 1927, and the Coates have paid only $3,850.27 on the agreement.

TOXEMIA IN PREGNANCY

By Joseph B. De Lee, M. D. Chicago, Ill. Member Gorgas Memorial Institute

Editors Note: Readers who desire articles written on specific subjects are invited to make their request to the Gorgas Memorial through this paper.

Doctors speak of "toxemia" in pregnancy. By this they mean that poisons (toxins) are circulating in the blood and these toxins affect, injuriously, the kidneys, the liver, the nerves, the blood itself. Toxemia is not what is popularly known as "blood poisoning." This is a disease due to germs which gain access to the tissues and blood and which we may discuss at a later date.

Now I wish to describe the toxemia of late pregnancy. This shows itself in its worst form as convulsions. Since the early symptoms resemble those of failure of kidney function, the people call this form of toxemia the kidney disease or the Bright's disease of pregnancy. Before the convulsions break out, there are swellings of the feet and eyelids, headaches, high blood pressure, decreased amount of urine, and albumen in the urine. In short, all the signs of kidney involvement.

By proper watchfulness, the earliest manifestations of this disease can be detected, and by proper diet and treatment its progress can be slowed if not completely arrested. And by early judicious interference (bringing on labor) the convulsions can be prevented.

Every husband should realize the danger that threatens his wife and be informed about and on the lookout for the symptoms of kidney disease. These are, swelling of the feet and eyelids, headaches, nausea and vomiting and reduced amount of urine.

Also, every husband should insist that his wife consult a good doctor at once when she thinks she is to become a mother and he should make it his business to get his wife to have her blood pressure taken regularly, and to send a sample of the urine at precise intervals for examination.

As increased blood pressure and the appearance of albumen in the urine are the two most significant signs of kidney disease, or threat-

Seek to Identify Man As Fiend

An attempt to determine whether Raymond Rhodes, held in Salinas for an attack on a 13 year-old girl of that city is the man sought for the past year in this county and known to the police of the peninsula and San Francisco as the "long nosed fiend" is being made at present by Sheriff McGrath and police of San Francisco. The man is wanted for a number of fiendish attacks upon a number of young girls in this and neighboring counties.

Several children were attacked in San Francisco by the "long nosed fiend," believed to have visited San Mateo county several times and to have once accosted a party of three small girls near the peninsula avenue grammar school, San Mateo.

Pictures of Rhodes are to be shown children in San Francisco and other peninsula cities where reports of the visits of the man were given to police.

Preserving is cool and easy with the Oven Heat Control

YOU can preserve summer fruits that taste as delicious and remain as firm as on the day they were picked from the laden bough. Briefly, here's a cool, easy way—

Cool because you don't have to lift boiling kettles about the stove.

Easy because the Oven Heat Control on the new Gas Range is the secret of delicious home preserving that is done in the oven without watching or anxiety. Fruit is packed right in jars and put into the oven. You merely set the Oven Heat Control and steady, even heat preserves the fruit's firmness, its delicious fruit-flavor and color. Jams and jellies also are well preserved by this cool, simple way.

Visit the range displays and see the Oven Heat Control on the new Gas Ranges.

S. F. Thanks Supervisors

A resolution passed by the San Francisco board of supervisors thanking the board of this county for the action taken at its last meeting in denying the petition for a bridge permit at Candlestick point was received by the board at its meeting Monday. The board denied the permit following a hearing attended by a delegation from the San Francisco supervisors who urged that the permit be not granted.

The Forward Look

TOMORROW'S telephone requirements must be foreseen today; the service of the future must be provided for in the present.

In the America of tomorrow new industries will develop, trade will increase, residential sections will replace the vacant areas of today. There must be new telephone buildings and switchboards; millions of miles of new wire and cable; yet a larger army of men and women to build and operate the ever increasing facilities; more and more trained executives to manage and direct.

It costs about $385,000,000 a year to keep ahead of America's demand for telephone service. If this vast sum is to be spent wisely and efficiently, future demands must be forecasted with as much precision as is humanly possible so that materials, money, manpower will not be lacking when the need comes. Only through the forward look is the telephone kept ready to meet the growing demands of a growing nation.

HORSES TO BE SHOWN FROM ALL OVER U.S.

The recognition accorded the Palo Alto horse show by exhibitors from all parts of the United States is unique and a real compliment to A. P. Fleming, whose standing as a horse show manager is such that all who know the game are aware that conditions at his shows will be as nearly right as they can reasonably be made, and that entries may be made without uncertainty as to results or questioning of details.

Over 700 entries have been booked for the show and more than 250 horses will grace the ring during the eight performances. All divisions, except that for harness horses, are well filled, and harness pony classes will be strong enough to counterbalance the shortage of the big hackneys of which there will be but eleven in the ring. However, it will be remembered that only a few years ago six or eight made many a great Pacific International Show. Eleven does not actually seem weak.

Hunting and jumping classes will be of moderate size with from a dozen to twenty entries. Quality, however, is better than has ever been known on the coast and it is of actual benefit to the program that these jumping events should not drag through the showing of thirty or forty jumpers in class after class throughout the week. All other divisions are full to overflowing with more evenly distributed high quality than is usual.

Looking over the entries in three and five-gaited classes it is impossible in many of them to even approximately pick those that should win.

The greatest polo stake ever shown—$2,000—offered by the Bloomfield Hills Stock Farm of Gilroy, California, of which Will S. Terle, Jr., is president and manager.

Terle and others of the Burlingame and San Mateo Polo Club have taken a great deal of interest in seeing that the polo classes are properly filled and there are twenty entries in the stake event alone.

A splendid arena has been erected at Stanford University Campus. Three tiers of boxes surrounding a well banked ring 220 x 120 feet with twenty-five hundred grand stand seats behind the boxes.

Box stalls to the number of 125 are adjacent—75 to stalls near by and a tent 350 x 60 feet will hold 50 more and provide fine accommodation for rigs and hitching.

Interest in the show seems to be extensive and if attendance is as good as the show deserves there will be another fixture in the horse show world on the Pacific Coast.

COUPLE CAUGHT MAKING DIMES

Plating pennies with nickel to make them look like dimes is the cause of the present grief of Richard Mason, 18, of San Mateo and Louis Helmer, 42, said to be his instructor. A plant for the transformation of pennies from the humble cent to an object that might pass as a dime was discovered in San Mateo by Police Officer Trenta, who reported the fact to the United States Secret Service after confiscating the plating apparatus and arresting Mason and Helmer.

At the time of his arrest Mason was busy in fitting out his place of business in expectation of a rush of trade. A sign specified that customers must furnish their own pennies.

The case was investigated this week by agents of the United States Secret Service. Several pennies which had been given a coating of nickel were turned over to the secret service by the San Mateo police.

Woodside

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas McBryde gave a supper last Saturday night at their home here. It was a barbecue supper cooked over an open air grill. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Stevenson, who are spending a fortnight at the Menlo Country Club, were the guests of honor and others there were, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Dohrmann, Mr. and Mrs. William Cannon, Mr. and Mrs. August Vanden, Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Hellmann, Mr. and Mrs. Browning Smith, Miss Florence Paxon, Miss Francesca Deering, Miss Mollie McBryde, Miss Phyllis Fay, Miss Barbara Pond, Miss Jean Wakefield, John Mace, David Mannocir, Arthur Stevenson, Willard Somers, Douglas Lewis and Jack Breiden.

Miss Janet Coleman, recently arrived from the East, has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Franklin Zane.

Rev. Benjamin St. John is in attendance, this week, upon the Church conference being held at Astillomar. As a consequence there will be no church services held in the Woodside church this Sunday.

Mrs. Peter Koehorst and children arrived this week after a five weeks vacation spent with relatives in Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Mighall returned on Wednesday after a week at Summerhome Park on the Russian river.

Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Blackington and family and a party of twenty-five spent Sunday at a picnic at Parallone Beach. Mrs. Blackington will leave on Saturday for a weeks stay in the Big Basin.

Mrs. Bradford Leavitt has been spending a week with her daughter, Mrs. William Lawson, at Carmel. She returned on Wednesday.

James Huddart and his sister, Miss May Huddart, will leave the latter part of the month for a trip through Europe. They will be gone about a year.

George Shine and Lee Beck Beck brought in the first deer of the season. They gave him no period of grace having made their bag at six o'clock on Monday morning.

Miss Marjorie Smith, niece of Mrs. Bradford Leavitt was a luncheon guest on Sunday of Mrs. Agnes Taylor Galbraith of Alameda.

Invitations have been issued by Mr. and Mrs. John Linden Deahl for the wedding of their daughter, Miss Margaret Deahl, to Mr. William Junkans Shaw. The wedding will take place on Saturday afternoon, Aug. 20, at four o'clock at the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Deahl in Woodside, and many friends of the bride and groom will go down from San Francisco for the event. The engagement of Miss Deahl to Mr. Shaw was announced in June at a luncheon given by Miss Deahl in Woodside. Mrs. Shaw is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Shaw of Colorado, who will come to California for the wedding.

'Chang' Movie Is Highly Heralded

"Chang," a motion picture revealing the hazardous life of the jungle has been brought back to America by Merian C. Cooper and Ernest B. Schoedsack, who spent 22 months in the remote interior of Siam making the production.

Heralded by Paramount in such extravagant superlatives as "one of the greatest pictures of all time," "Chang" is utterly different from any photoplay ever made. In that although ferocious animals of the jungle—tigers, leopards, elephants, great snakes and chattering monkeys are the principal actors—the picture contains a basic plot, skillfully embroidered with conventional dramatic forms of sympathy, struggle, menace, tragedy, pathos and exceptional comedy, furnished by a white gibbon named Bimbo.

"Chang" will be presented at the Sequoia Theatre Wednesday, Thursday and Friday under the auspices of Paramount, which organization financed Cooper and Schoedsack in their extraordinary effort.

The theme of "Chang" is most elemental—the conflict of man against the implacable foe, the jungle, and the hostile beasts sheltered by its abundant foliage.

In making "Chang" Cooper and Schoedsack constantly faced death, not only from the tigers, elephants, leopards and snakes, but from the cholera which took the lives of seven native members of their expedition. Schoedsack himself was stricken with a severe attack of malaria which delayed work on the film.

As the protagonists of man in his eternal fight to wrest a living from the wild, the producer chose an heroic Siamese family—a man, his wife, their two children, household pets and Bimbo, the monkey.

Deahl in Woodside, and many friends of the bride and groom will go down from San Francisco for the event. The engagement of Miss Deahl to Mr. Shaw was announced in June at a luncheon given by Miss Deahl in Woodside.

Mrs. Shaw is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Shaw of Colorado, who will come to California for the wedding.

"POOR NUT" WILL BE ENJOYED BY ENTIRE FAMILY

Jack Mulhall in "The Poor Nut"

The best way to describe First National's new feature picture, "The Poor Nut," which comes to the Sequoia Theatre Monday and Tuesday with Jack Mulhall in the title role, is to say that it will be enjoyed by everyone, from mother and father to the last kiddie.

"The Poor Nut" is the screen version of the stage play of the same title which ran for a year in New York. It is a clean, extremely funny story of college life, built around a young man who suffers from an "inferiority complex," which is finally removed through the work of a pretty co-ed and his own victory as a runner on the cinder track.

A real track meet, the big annual affair of the University of Arizona, is shown in the picture and is one of the outstanding features of the film. Real athletes in real competition instead of the usual "framed" motion picture affairs takes this sequence out of the usual run.

"The Poor Nut" was directed by Richard Wallace. In the cast, in addition to Mulhall, are Charles Murray, Jane Winton, Jean Arthur, Cornelius Keefe and many other prominent screen players.

HEARS MARRIAGE SERVICE ALTHOUGH 600 MILES AWAY

Although William Clark, a printer for the Times-Gazette, was in Redwood City when his sister was being married in Salt Lake City, Utah, he nevertheless was able to hear the wedding service. Although six hundred miles of mountain, desert and forest lay between this city and that in which the minister was reading the solemn wedding service, the words came distinctly to the lone listener in California.

This seeming wonder was made possible by a long distance telephone connection to the home where the service was to take place. A telephone was connected to the minister's office, every word of the solemn ceremony, the first, "Do you," the kiss was heard by Clark at the phone in the Times-Gazette office. The only part of the service that he missed, Clark was the wedding cake.
